

Université libre de Bruxelles

European Master's Degree in Human Rights and Democratisation
A.Y. 2015/2016

Why Europe Struggles With the Combat Against Antisemitism.

An Analysis of Debates About Antisemitism in Europe.

Author: Anna Maria Resch

Supervisor: Guy Haarscher

ABSTRACT

The rationale of this literature-based thesis is to explore and interpret contemporary European debates about antisemitism while focussing on the German and Austrian context without ignoring the phenomenon's historical evolvement in order to render visible potential challenges as well as dangers in the combat against modern antisemitism in Europe.

The first part is dedicated to terminological questions as well as the task of defining the phenomenon itself. Subsequently, the main part of this thesis deals with manifestations of antisemitism especially after 1945 and identifies essential issues such as secondary antisemitism and philosemitism, anti-Zionism in particular after 1967, Islamised antisemitism, semantics of modern antisemitism and the debate on "new antisemitism". On the basis of an examination of the prevalent controversies about antisemitism in Europe, the following challenges in the combat against antisemitism revealed: first, the lack of consensus over what antisemitism is and the therewith connected lack of comparable official data on antisemitism; second, the Shoah lead to a modification of antisemitism so that the phenomenon manifests itself camouflaged and under the surface; third, anti-Zionism and critique of Israel do not equal antisemitism but they overlap; fourth, the Israeli-Palestinian conflict is not the cause of antisemitism but complicates the combat against it and fifth, migration of Muslims to Europe does not cause the rise of antisemitism but Islamised antisemitism is a problem and the combat against it risks perpetuating anti-Muslim racism.

This thesis strives to fill the gap of knowledge why Europe faces difficulties in the combat against antisemitism to enable a reconceptualization of strategies against it in order to foster social cohesion in the multicultural societies of Europe.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

ABSTRACT	ii
TABLE OF CONTENTS	iii
CHAPTER I INTRODUCTION	5
1. Context.....	5
2. Statement of Purpose	8
2.1. Rationale.....	8
2.2 Positionality.....	9
3. Statement of Problem	9
3.1. Research Questions.....	10
3.2. Limitations.....	11
4. Methodology.....	11
5. Outline	12
CHAPTER II WHAT IS ANTISEMITISM?	14
1. Terminological Questions.....	14
2. Defining Antisemitism	16
CHAPTER III MANIFESTATIONS OF ANTISEMITISM.....	23
1. Antisemitism before 1945	24
1.1. From anti-Judaism to Antisemitism	24
1.2. From Racist Exclusion to the Shoah.....	26
2. Antisemitism after 1945: Secondary Antisemitism and Philosemitism	30
2.1. Secondary Antisemitism.....	30
2.2. Philosemitism	36
3. Anti-Zionism	37
3.1. Zionism and Anti-Zionism	38
3.2. Stalinist Anti-Zionism after the Shoah	40
3.3. Anti-Zionism after 1967	42
3.4. The Radical Left, the Germans, the Jews and Zionism	42
3.5. Critique of the Left's Antisemitism – the “Anti-Germans”	44
3.6. Anti-Americanism	45
3.7. Antisemitism within Anti-Capitalist and Anti-Globalisation Movements	47
3.8. Anti-Racist Antisemitism and the Israeli-Palestinian Conflict.....	50
3.9. Anti-Zionism and Legitimate or Illegitimate Critique of the State of Israel	53
3.10. Criticising the State of Israel	55
4. Islamised Antisemitism	60
5. Semantic of Modern Antisemitism.....	66

6. “New Antisemitism”	70
7. Challenges Stemming from the “New Antisemitism” Debate	72
7.1. The Challenge of Data Production on Antisemitism.....	73
7.2. Islamised Antisemitism, Secondary Antisemitism and Anti-Muslim Racism ..	77
7.2.1. Antisemitism vs. Anti-Muslim Racism?	77
7.2.2. The Connection of Islamised Antisemitism, Secondary Antisemitism and Anti-Muslim Racism	79
7.3. A Way Out?	82
CHAPTER V CONCLUSION	86
REFERENCES	93