

DEMOCRACY IN NEW EUROPEAN COUNTRIES: FROM WHERE?

Case Study: Bosnia and Herzegovina and Kosovo

Denis GILA

2009/2010

Supervisor: Prof. Jarna PETMAN

Eric Castrén Institute of International Law and Human Rights

UNIVERSITY OF HELSINKI

*To my daughter,
Sofia*

ABSTRACT

After the fall of the Berlin wall, the conflicts in the contemporary world changed their nature, from an inter-state to inter-ethnic. There have been many discussions about the sovereignty of the States and the humanitarian interventions on the solution of the conflicts, but still many countries have seen the international intervention, occupying the territories or administering them with different degree of intervention. There have been different models applied in the conflicting territories that somehow have resolved the conflict but still peace is under discussion.

On the focus of this master's thesis is the consociational democracy model implemented in Bosnia and Herzegovina and in Kosovo. In the former one this model seems to be ineffective and in latter one the model has still to be proved.

In these pages, there is an attempt to discover the effectiveness of the model implemented and the main obstacles that are still impeding the development of the countries. The model has been treated in its constitutive elements and the conditions for its functionality. On the other side there is an attempt to show where the model comes from. In the following pages we look forward to seek if there are other alternatives to this model considering that the ethnic conflict is still frozen and it is being evident in other regions.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The list of the people that I would like to thank is huge and I cannot include all of them.

When I was a student at the University of Padua, Antonio Papisca was one of my professors. Following his classes it was a great opportunity to enter in the world of the Human Rights. I discovered the importance of Human Rights and this world fascinated me so much to think, somehow, about that in the everyday life. I proudly can say that he gave me the impulse to work on the Human Rights field. Several years ago I applied in the E.MA program but I was not admitted. I insisted and now I am almost at the end of this magnificent program, thanks to those days I spent following the classes of Prof. Papisca.

Here, I would like to add the Albanian Parliament, in particular the Speaker, Ms. Jozefina Çoba Topalli who gave me the opportunity to attend and encouraged me to go forward in my higher studies. She dedicated part of her political life to the women, to the children and other categories of disadvantaged people in the society. When the Speaker knew about my desire to study in the field of Human Right she said that it was important for me, for the Parliament and for the whole country and she strongly supported this project.

This academic year was one of the most beautiful ones considering the diversity of people I was living with and sharing ideas and opinions. The dialogue with the professors and masterini was of an incomparable richness. People from all over the world were fighting for a noble idea in different ways. Does still someone question the universalism of Human Rights?

After spending the first semester in Venice, wonderful city, I spent the second one in the cold Helsinki. I complained a lot because of the weather and the snow. But, here I want to apologize because it was my fault. I saw some nice pictures in internet and I was thinking that Helsinki is nice, is like another normal European city, Lisbon or Paris or another one. Helsinki is challenging and I lost but thanks to the whole Eric Castren Institute that every day made my stay in Helsinki better and better. And now I'm missing the atmosphere of ECI. Many thanks go to all of them. Especially I would like to thank my Supervisors, Prof. Jarna Petman, Prof. Jan Klabbers, and as his substitute for a long period of time, Prof. Alejandro Lorite Escorihuela. Prof. Lorite Escorihuela was very patient with me answering to all the questions I had at any time.

Special thanks go to my sister, my brother and to my father.

This year, on 5 February, I became the father of little Sofia. This was the best present ever that I could have in my life. My wife, Aneta, since I knew I was admitted in the master program, she strongly supported me and with divine patient, is still waiting I'll come back home to help her. I think this is testimony of love.

My mother has a special place in the list because she made many sacrifices to help me during all my life. She never said no to what I was asking for. And if today I was able to reach this level of education, it is thanks to my mother.

Now is time to thank someone in particular. One day I was trying to sing a song, in my way. Sofia was only two months old and she was following me and moving her head to the rhythm of the music. Sofia has been every single moment in my heart and in my thoughts. Now the master is ending, it is time to go home, to take her in my arms and to be with her all my life long.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION.....	3
1. CONSOCIATIONAL DEMOCRACY: FROM THEORY TO PRACTICE .....	7
1.1 Democracy and consociational model .....	7
1.2 Consociational democracy and its implementation in Europe .....	10
1.2.1 The Netherlands.....	12
1.2.2 Belgium.....	16
1.2.3 Differences and communalities .....	19
2. IMPLEMENTING CONSOCIATIONAL MODEL IN BOSNIA AND HERZEGOVINA AND KOSOVO.....	23
2.1 Implementation of the consociational democracy in the new states.....	23
2.2 General remarks.....	24
2.3 Bosnia and Herzegovina.....	26
2.3.1 Democratic institutions in Bosnia and Herzegovina.....	27
2.3.2 The consequences of the consociational model.....	30
2.4 Kosovo: a dream became a fact.....	34
2.4.1 Democratic institutions in Kosovo .....	35
2.4.2 Consequences of the consociational model.....	38
2.5 Differences between Bosnia and Herzegovina and Kosovo .....	39
3. INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY AND COUNTRY CONTEXTUALISATION.....	41
3.1 International community and the implementation of the consociational democracy	41
3.2 Bosnia and Herzegovina.....	42
3.2.1 Top-down or bottom-up .....	42
3.2.2 International community presence.....	44
3.3 Kosovo .....	50
3.3.1 From Bosnia and Herzegovina to Kosovo .....	50

3.3.2	International community presence.....	52
3.4	International community and country contextualization.....	55
4.	WHAT MIGHT BE DONE? .....	57
4.1	A matter of choice? .....	57
4.2	Bosnia and Herzegovina.....	59
4.2.1	Executive powers of the OHR and responsibility for the politicians .....	59
4.2.2	Common space for debate: gender approach .....	63
4.3	Kosovo: .....	65
4.3.1	Reducing the executive powers of the ICO.....	65
4.3.2	The primacy of the rule of law .....	66
4.4	EU conditionality.....	68
	CONCLUSIONS .....	73
	BIBLIOGRAPHY .....	75

2010

Democracy in new European countries: from where? case study: Bosnia and Herzegovina and Kosovo

Gila, Denis

---

<https://doi.org/20.500.11825/1051>

Downloaded from Open Knowledge Repository, Global Campus' institutional repository