UNIVERSITY OF PADUA

European Master’s Degree in Human Rights and Democratisation
2014/2015

PHOTOJOURNALISM; HUMAN RIGHTS THROUGH A DOCUMENTARY LENS

BRINA SOTLAR

PROF. FARAH POLATO
Imagine a world without photography,
One could only imagine.
(Berenice Abbott)
I would like to thank my parents, for their unconditional support.
PHOTOJOURNALISM; HUMAN RIGHTS THROUGH A DOCUMENTARY LENS

ABSTRACT

This dissertation, titled Photojournalism; Human Rights Through a Documentary Lens, will research changes in correlation between visual and intellectual framework in photojournalism in the context of human rights advertisement. Specifically, exploration of power of visual imagery throughout history, visual-narrative presented through language of aesthetics, perception of photography and analysis of existing visual material, analysis of news image changing in relation to specific cultural context, research on photography reportages, projects, foundations and campaigns, which are considered one of the most powerful tools in the struggle for human rights, ethical considerations in photojournalism and today’s information society and the affect images of suffering have on our perception of the world. Thesis structure combines various studies and perspectives regarding photojournalism’s role in constructing personal and social reality through verisimilitude of images.
TABLE OF CONTENTS

1 INTRODUCTION ........................................................................................................... 6
   1.1 TERMINOLOGY .......................................................................................................... 9

2 THE RISING POWER OF VISUAL IMAGES .................................................................. 14

3 PHOTOGRAPHY LANGUAGE – HOW NEWS IMAGES MOVE THE PUBLIC .................. 27
   3.1 PHOTOGRAPHY LANGUAGE – THE CONSTRUCTION OF PHOTOGRAPHIC MEANING IN PHOTOJOURNALISM .................................................................................. 28
   3.2 PHOTOGRAPHY READING .......................................................................................... 38

4 PHOTOJOURNALISM; NEWS IMAGE CHANGING .................................................. 43

5 PHOTOJOURNALISM AS ADVOCACY IN THE STRUGGLE FOR HUMAN RIGHTS ........ 51
   5.1 REPORTAGES ............................................................................................................... 52
   5.2 PROJECTS ....................................................................................................................... 57
   5.3 FOUNDATIONS .............................................................................................................. 58
   5.4 CAMPAIGNS ................................................................................................................... 59

6 ETHICAL CONSIDERATIONS IN PHOTOJOURNALISM ......................................... 63
   6.1 CODES OF ETHICS - PHOTOJOURNALISM ............................................................... 69
      6.1.1 NATIONAL PRESS PHOTOGRAPHERS ASSOCIATION – CODE OF ETHICS .................................................................................................................................. 69
      6.1.2 PHOTOGRAPHER’S GUIDE TO PRIVACY ............................................................... 70

7 THE BURDEN OF VISUAL TRUTH ............................................................................. 74

8 CONCLUSION .................................................................................................................. 80

9 BIBLIOGRAPHY .............................................................................................................. 89
2015

Photojournalism; human rights through a documentary lens

Sotlar, Brina

https://doi.org/20.500.11825/257

Downloaded from Open Knowledge Repository, Global Campus' institutional repository