

The European Union's role in making migration work for development:

Mobility Partnerships as a means of fostering the development impact of migration or a Trojan horse to achieve Member States' interests?

Anna Maria Leichtfried

Supervisor: Prof. Guy Haarscher

External Supervisor: Raül Hernández i Sagrera

2nd semester university: Université Libre De Bruxelles, Belgium

Academic year: 2011/2012

First, I am heartily thankful to my external supervisor, Raül Hernández i Sagrera for all his advice and support. I am also grateful to the team of the Université Libre De Bruxelles and to Professor Guy Haarscher for all the help and support.

I owe a special thank to Laura Van den Eynde for her advice, endless encouragement and support and to my dear college and friend Lisa Heschl for her constructive and helpful comments as well as fruitful discussions.

Thanks to my amazing friends in Brussels and Leuven for making my time there such a happy one. And finally, thanks to my parents for their continuous support and their faith in me and to Petr who brightened my year!

ABSTRACT

This research analyses the role of the European Union (EU) in making migration work for development. After an attempt to define the migration-development nexus and assess whether migration might have a positive impact on the development of migrant-sending countries, the thesis aims at analysing the EU's quest for a more comprehensive approach, by focusing on three issues.

First, it is analysed how and to what extent the migration-development nexus has been addressed in the EU's policy framework. Particular emphasis is put on the external dimension of the EU's migration policy and on the question whether development objectives are sufficiently included in the external migration policy. Subsequently, Mobility Partnerships as tools of the external dimension are examined on their potential of being a means of fostering the development impact of migration.

In all the three domains it is investigated how and to what extent policy options, which are determined on the basis of the debate on 'migration and development', are addressed and integrated.

By drawing some attention to the role of the EU in making migration work for development, particularly through Mobility Partnerships, this research hopes to contribute in practical terms to moving the debate on 'migration and development' forward.

LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS

Commission	European Commission
CAMM	Common Agenda on Migration and Mobility
EEAS	European External Action Service
EIB	European Investment Bank
ENP	European Neighbourhood Policy
ENPI	European Neighbourhood Policy Instrument
EP	European Parliament
ETF	European Training Foundation
EU	European Union
FDI	Foreign Direct Investment
GAERC	General Affairs and External Relations Council
GAM	Global Approach to Migration
GAMM	Global Approach to Migration and Mobility
GDP	Gross domestic product
ICRMW	International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families
ILO	International Labour Organization
IMF	International Monetary Fund
IOM	International Organization for Migration

LBT	Local Border Traffic
MDGs	Millennium Development Goals
MP(s)	Mobility Partnership(s)
MTO(s)	Money transfer operator(s)
ODA	Official Development Aid
OECD	Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development
PCD	Policy Coherence for Development
PSD	Payment Service Directive
TCN	Third country national
UN	United Nations
UNCTAD	United Nations Conference on Trade and Development
WB	World Bank
WHO	World Health Organization

TABLE OF CONTENT

INTRODUCTION	1
PART ONE: THE MIGRATION-DEVELOPMENT NEXUS	6
Chapter 1 - Migration and Development	6
I. Migration and the European Union	6
II. The notion of ‘migration and development’	8
Chapter 2 - The Positive Migration-Development Nexus: Migrants as development agents?	11
III. Reasons, motivation and determinants of migration, return and remittance flows	11
A. Migration and return.....	11
B. Remittance flows.....	13
IV. Monetary remittances and development.....	15
A. Conceptualising monetary remittances	15
B. ‘Cash cow’ or ‘chicken feed’ for developing countries? Current trends in remittances and the European Union as a top remitter	16
C. Monetary remittances and development: Sending so much more than money?	18
V. Human and social remittances and development	22
A. Conceptualising human and social remittances	22
B. Social remittances and development: Brain circulation and the role of diasporas	22
VI. Obstacles undermining the development impact of migration.....	26
A. Barriers related to monetary remittances	26

B.	Barriers related to human and social remittances.....	28
VII.	Conclusion.....	30
PART TWO: MAKING MIGRATION WORK FOR DEVELOPMENT - TOWARDS A COMPREHENSIVE APPROACH TO MIGRATION.....		32
Chapter 3 - Policy options which can be distilled from the debate on ‘migration and development’.....		33
Chapter 4 - The European Union’s Quest for a comprehensive approach.....		35
I.	Migration and Development Policies: Friends or Foes?	35
II.	The Migration-Development Nexus in the European Union’s Policy Framework: Towards the development of an European Union policy framework on migration and development	37
III.	The Migration-Development Nexus in the External Dimension of the European Union’s Migration Policy	43
A.	From the external dimension of the European Union’s Migration Policy to a Global Approach to Migration	43
B.	In search of a more comprehensive approach: The Global Approach to Migration and Mobility	48
Chapter 5 - Mobility Partnerships: A panacea for achieving coherence between migration and development policy?		50
I.	The EU Mobility Partnerships with third countries	51
A.	Mobility Partnerships and their possible content	51
B.	Form and legal nature of Mobility Partnerships	53
C.	Preference for Eastern European countries: Coincidence or selectiveness?	56
II.	Mobility Partnerships and the Migration-Development Nexus	57
A.	The Mobility Partnerships’ contribution to migration and development.....	58
1.	Legal migration opportunities	58

2. Monetary remittances	62
3. Social remittances and counteracting 'brain drain'	63
4. Role of diaspora	65
5. Migrants' rights	66
B. Impact of Mobility Partnerships: The case of the Republic of Moldova	67
C. Mobility Partnerships as a means of fostering the development impact of migration or a Trojan horse to achieve Member States' interests?	73
Chapter 6 – The European Union's role in making migration work for development: Key findings and future recommendations	77
BIBLIOGRAPHY	86
ANNEX	129

2012

The European Unions role in making migration work for development: mobility partnerships as a means for fostering the development impact of migration or a Trojan horse to achieve member states' interest?

Leichtfried, Anna Maria

<https://doi.org/20.500.11825/747>

Downloaded from Open Knowledge Repository, Global Campus' institutional repository