THE UNIVERSITY OF NOTTINGHAM

European Master's Degree in Human Rights and Democratisation

A.Y. 2015/2016

CHILD TRAFFICKING IN THE WAKE OF DISASTERS:

INVESTIGATIONS AND PATHS FOR IMPROVEMENTS IN THE FRAMEWORKS SURROUNDING DISASTER RESPONSE AND CHILD TRAFFICKING

Author: Pauline DEHARRE

Supervisor: Sandesh SIVAKUMARAN

ABSTRACT

This thesis argues that a new comprehensive and preferably binding instrument is needed to protect children against trafficking and many other adverse effects of disasters. The issue at stake is that children are made more vulnerable to abuses of their rights during humanitarian crisis such as disasters. One frequent kind of abuse amid such crisis is child trafficking for the purpose of irregular adoption, economic or sexual exploitation, or other violent practices. Two frameworks are analysed throughout the thesis to assess the protection granted to children against those practices in post-disaster situations: the framework surrounding disaster response and the child's rights framework (related to trafficking issues). In order to reveal the strengths and weaknesses of the two frameworks, three different post-disaster situations will be analysed (the 2004 Asian tsunami, the 2010 Haitian earthquake and the 2015 Nepalese Earthquake). Some shortcomings will be identified, mainly regarding the weak cooperation and coordination of the different actors involved in disaster response (and the too weak consideration for national actors which are, indeed, particularly important for an adequate and sustainable response). The lack of consideration for humanitarian crisis as disasters within the child trafficking framework, and generally within the child's rights framework, will also be revealed. Paths for improvement at the international level will be suggested, including suggestions for the adoption of new (binding) comprehensive instruments.

Keywords: Disaster Response, Child Trafficking, Children's Rights, Disasters

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Abstract
Acknowledgements
TABLE OF ACRONYMS
TABLE OF CONTENTS
INTRODUCTION1
TITLE I. SETTING THE STAGE: FRAMEWORKS ON DISASTERS AND CHILD TRAFFICKING 4
CHAPTER 1. POST-DISASTER SITUATIONS
SECTION 1. FRAMING DISASTER RESPONSE
SECTION 2. LEGAL AND INSTITUTIONAL FRAMEWORKS ON DISASTER RESPONSE 7
§1. Relevance of other Branches of International Law
§2. DEVELOPMENT OF INTERNATIONAL DISASTER RESPONSE LAW (IDRL) 10
§3. Core Content of International Disaster Response Law
§4. DISASTER RESPONSE MISSIONS
SECTION 3. INCLUSION OF CHILDREN IN THE LEGAL AND INSTITUTIONAL FRAMEWORKS ON DISASTER RESPONSE
§1. Consequences of disasters for children
§2. Special Legal Framework for Children 22
§3. Special Institutional Framework
CHAPTER 2. CHILD TRAFFICKING

SECTION 1. CHILD TRAFFICKING AND RELATED ISSUES
SECTION 2. LEGAL AND INSTITUTIONAL FRAMEWORKS ON CHILD TRAFFICKING 27
CHAPTER 3. CHILD TRAFFICKING IN THE WAKE OF A DISASTER
SECTION 1. FEATURES OF CHILD TRAFFICKING IN POST-DISASTER SITUATIONS 32
SECTION 2. LEGAL AND INSTITUTIONAL FRAMEWORKS
TITLE II. ARE THOSE FRAMEWORKS EFFICIENT? RESULTS ON THE FIELD
Chapter 1. 2004 Asian Tsunami
CHAPTER 2. 2010 HAITIAN EARTHQUAKE
Chapter 3. 2015 Nepalese Earthquake
TITLE III. COULD IT BE BETTER? FILLING THE GAPS & POSSIBLE IMPROVEMENTS 58
CHAPTER 1. FILLING THE GAPS IN THE DISASTER RESPONSE FRAMEWORK
SECTION 1. SHORTCOMINGS IN THE DISASTER FRAMEWORK
SECTION 2. PATHS FOR IMPROVEMENT
CHAPTER 2. FILLING THE GAPS IN THE CHILD'S RIGHTS FRAMEWORK
SECTION 1. SHORTCOMINGS IN THE CHILD'S RIGHTS FRAMEWORK
SECTION 2. PATHS FOR IMPROVEMENT
CONCLUSION
BIBLIOGRAPHY